

Manada Conservancy

Manada Conservancy is a non-profit land trust dedicated to preserving the natural, historic, agricultural, and scenic resources of Dauphin County through land conservation, environmental education, and community engagement.

We recognize the value of planting species native to the Pennsylvania region to restore ecological balance, promote biodiversity, and beautify the local landscape.

A portion of the proceeds from your Gardening for Nature services benefits Manada Conservancy.

Thank you!

Gardening for Nature

- Enhances your property and invites wildlife
- Helps maintain balance between insect populations by way of attracting beneficial insects
- Lessens the need for pesticides and fertilizers
 - Strengthens habitats
 - Reduces the spread of invasive species
 - Restores biodiversity
- Adds to the unique natural environment of the region

Services

Our service includes . . .

- An onsite property visit and evaluation
- Suggested landscape design layout and report
- Recommended native plant list
- Information about native plant sources
- Other recommendations to help you meet your goals for the property

Manada Conservancy's Gardening for Nature Consultant, Laurie Crawford, will meet with each client onsite to tour the property and discuss client goals. Laurie will create and return to the client a written plan and list of recommendations including general property recommendations, native plants suitable for their site, a visual layout or drawing of the recommended plants, a list of sources from which plants might be purchased, gardening practice recommendations, and possible concerns for which the client should be aware.

The fee, based on a 3 hour package for a garden size of up to 250 square feet, and including the above services, is $250.

If additional time is desired by the client beyond the initial Gardening for Nature consultation package, the charge is $45 per hour.

A travel fee for any site visits that are more than 10 miles from the Manada Conservancy office (113 Main Street, Hummelstown) will be charged at the current IRS travel rate (58 cents per mile for 2019).

If project installation is desired by the client, it is to be determined between the consultant and client, completely independent from Manada Conservancy.
